THE LAURENTIAN SKI MUSEUM

In 2017, the LSM celebrates its 35 years of existence. Since 2008, the museum is housed in a building that belongs to the City of Saint-Sauveur, and is the former police and fire station. The foundation of the LSM was the endeavour of a group of passionate members of the Société d'histoire et de généalogie des Pays-d'en-Haut, after they had created a research committee in the 1980s. Gradually, the collection was gathered. Today, the Museum manages a collection composed of more than 7000 artifacts and 17 private archival holdings. The LSM is a regional thematic history museum.

PERMANENT EXHIBITION

The introduction of skiing in the Laurentian area, first as a means of locomotion on snow, then as a participatory and competitive sport, has contributed and continues to contribute to the social, economic, tourism, and cultural development of the Laurentian territory. From a forest and agricultural area, skiing has made the Pays-d'en-Haut region a real haven for winter sports, and is considered as the birthplace of skiing in Canada. The Laurentian Ski Museum intends to propose the main stages of the history of ski in the Laurentians, in order to further understand how Man could live in winter, with winter and from winter.

MISSION AND MANDATE OF THE LAURENTIAN SKI MUSEUM

An historical approach:

From its collection and its archives, the LSM raises the subject of history, as linked to the development of skiing as a winter sport, and of its impact on social, economical and cultural life of the Laurentians area

An approach to highlight the area cultural identity:

It is important to preserve the collective memory of the role played by this sport in the development of the Laurentians, and of the province of Quebec and Canada. The Museum wishes to bring out the best of this heritage that has marked the regional cultural identity.

A public-oriented approach:

Aware of the public's needs and interests, the Museum provides for the development and loyalty of various types of clients, through its different activities.

An educational-centered approach:

The distribution is focused on the promotion of the Museum's high-quality permanent and temporary exhibitions.

INTRODUCTION TO THE EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

The Laurentian Ski Museum's educational services offer various activities, and among others, guided tours for 5 persons or more, in French or English. The visits are adapted to the clientele and may meet the interests of different publics, whether from preschool level or specific specially-dedicated groups or associations. Our maximum capacity is of 35 people. For larger groups, it is possible to split them in to smaller groups, and even to combine the visit of the Museum with another activity in Saint-Sauveur. For example, we can offer one or several activities in cooperation with the Saint-Sauveur municipal library, which is just a minute's walk of the Museum.

Through its activities, the LSM's main objective is to make ski better known, as a means of locomotion which became a participating and competitive sport, and which played and still plays an important role in the economic, social and cultural development of the Laurentians.
